Autism: Early Detection, Effective Multidisciplinary Treatment and Possible Preventative Measures

Dr. Robert W. Sears, a pediatric specialist, is one of a five-member family medical practice devoted to children’s development, care and diseases where his unique approach combines alternative and traditional medical care. He is on the Medical Advisory Board for the organization Talk About Curing Autism and is the author of The Vaccine Book and The Autism Book. He has co-authored several other books, written articles for many professional and parenting publications. He is a frequent speaker at conferences and parenting health expos, and is a regular contributor to the contract of AskDrSears.com as well as many other parenting sites. He has made guest appearances on television shows that include Dr. Phil, The Ellen DeGeneres Show, CNN’s House Calls with Dr. Sanjay Gupta, the CBS Early Show, and Fox Morning News. Dr. Sears is married and has three children. He enjoys surfing, mountain biking, playing bass guitar with his guitarist teenage son, and spending time with his family.
